

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES.

JUNE 11, 1858.—Ordered to be printed.

Mr. SIMMONS made the following

R E P O R T .

[To accompany Bill S. 274.]

Supplemental report upon the memorial and bill for the relief of Randall Pegg, recommitted to the Committee on Patents and the Patent Office.

Upon further investigation it appears that a bill was passed by the last Congress, directing the payment to Randall Pegg of the difference of pay between the amount he actually received, as a watchman at the Patent Office extension, and $1 25 per day. It also appears to the satisfaction of the committee that the present claim, including the amount already allowed him, was made by the mistake of the person who drew up the memorial, and that there was no real design on the part of the memorialist to demand payment a second time of the amount allowed him by the last Congress. The committee, therefore, report back the bill, with an amendment, allowing him the reduced amount actually due, which will make his pay equal to the amount paid to other watchmen for the same or similar service.
